

International Wildlife Rehabilitation Council

Providing science-based education and resources to wildlife rehabilitators and the public to promote wildlife conservation and welfare.

2-Day Intensive Wildlife Rehabilitation Course

The International Wildlife Rehabilitation Council will offer a Basic Wildlife Rehabilitation Course in Anderson for those looking to add to their formal wildlife rehab education. The IWRC is a non-profit organization that offers training and support to wildlife rehabilitators worldwide.

- Description: An introductory course with lecture topics that include: intro to wildlife rehab, basic anatomy and physiology, calculating drug dosages, handling and physical restraint, thermoregulation, stress, basic shock cycle, initial care and physical examination, nutrition and associated diseases, standards for housing, zoonoses, euthanasia criteria and release criteria.
- Includes a half-day lab to practice techniques in: gavage (tube-feeding), physical restraint, intramuscular and subcutaneous injections, physical exams, limb immobilization and weighing. (Full course earns 13 Continuing Education Credits)

WHERE: Anderson, CA

WHEN: 3/10/2012-3/11/2012

WHO: Both novices and experienced rehabilitators seeking formal education

HOW MUCH?: IWRC Member: $125
Non-Member: $159

REGISTER ONLINE: WWW.THEIWRC.ORG